Hiring Manager
Cintas Corporation
Charlotte, NC

Dear Hiring Manager,

Daily cold prospecting, new account development from a cold start, and the discipline to keep a full pipeline while managing an existing book of business — this is the Cintas Sales Representative's job in Charlotte, and it is the job I am built for. I spent four years in high-activity field sales roles where income was earned through prospecting discipline and competitive closing, and I am ready to channel that into a Cintas territory.

At KraftMaid Cabinetry, I held full B2B sales responsibility for 23 accounts and a $5.47M annual portfolio. I used Salesforce CRM and Power BI to manage my pipeline and territory routing, hit 145% of monthly quota in January 2026, and grew market share in a market that was contracting 8% industry-wide — by displacing entrenched competitor relationships through consistent presence and competitive selling. At TTI, I drove 5.15% year-over-year revenue growth on a $4.06M territory through daily face-to-face cold calls and in-store prospecting across a defined geography. Before that, at DCU, I exceeded monthly quotas by 10% in a high-volume phone-based sales environment — closing 50 credit products and 20 auto loans per month through consultative, objection-handling-heavy selling.

Cintas's sales culture is built on activity, accountability, and competitive new account acquisition. I have lived in that culture. I understand that results are a product of daily field activity logged in CRM, prospects moved through a structured pipeline, and the discipline to make the next call even after a hard no. I thrive in that environment.

I am relocating to Charlotte immediately with no timeline constraints and am ready to start prospecting the day I land. I would welcome the opportunity to talk about what the Charlotte territory needs from a new rep right now.

Sincerely,
Collin Celic
