Hiring Manager
Henry Schein
Raleigh, NC

Dear Hiring Manager,

Analytics-backed account reviews, Power BI territory dashboards, and a consultative approach that converts data into account-level revenue growth — this is how I built a $5.47M territory to 145% of monthly quota, and it is the exact approach Henry Schein's Sales Specialist role demands. I am applying because the combination of analytical rigor and field relationship skills required here matches my background closely.

At KraftMaid Cabinetry, I conducted structured business reviews with dealer principals and key buyers, using Power BI dashboards and Salesforce CRM to identify revenue gaps, growth opportunities, and competitive risk across 23 accounts. I built account-specific action plans, delivered product training that improved sell-through, and protected market share in a declining industry by staying more analytically prepared than the competition at every account review. At TTI, I managed a $4.06M multi-brand territory and grew revenue 5.15% year-over-year by combining high-frequency face-to-face engagement with disciplined pipeline tracking in CRM.

Henry Schein's business — distributing dental and medical supplies to practices across North Carolina and South Carolina — is fundamentally a territory business where account depth, data-driven planning, and consistent consultative service create competitive advantage. I bring the tools and the track record to operate at that level. The product context is new; the operating model is familiar.

I am relocating to Raleigh without timeline constraints and am available immediately. I would welcome the chance to discuss the Sales Specialist opportunity and how an analytics-first territory approach can add value to the Raleigh market.

Sincerely,
Collin Celic
