Relocating to Charlotte / Raleigh, NC — Available Immediately

Hiring Manager
Medtronic — Pelvic Health
Raleigh, NC

Dear Hiring Manager,

In January 2026, I closed at 145% of monthly quota while managing a $5.47M territory through a sustained industry downturn. I did it by knowing my accounts better than anyone else, planning my territory with precision, and delivering product education that turned skeptical floor associates into engaged brand advocates. That is the kind of field rep I am, and that is the rep I want to be for Medtronic's Pelvic Health team in Raleigh.

The Senior Sales Representative designation signals a need for someone who can operate independently, manage complex accounts, and drive meaningful revenue without heavy supervision. My four years of territory management experience — $5.47M at KraftMaid, $4.06M at TTI — have prepared me for exactly that. At KraftMaid, I was the sole representative for 23 accounts across greater Boston, responsible for everything from account health and pricing to in-person product demonstrations and CRM-tracked pipeline management. I grew market share in a declining market and exceeded quota through disciplined consultative selling. At TTI, I drove 5.15% YOY revenue growth on a high-activity daily field prospecting model.

The Pelvic Health product line requires clinical knowledge I will need to develop, and I am approaching this honestly: I am committed to getting up the learning curve on InterStim Micro, the patient identification process, and the urology call environment quickly and thoroughly. What I bring immediately is the field sales infrastructure that makes a senior rep effective — Salesforce and Power BI fluency, territory planning discipline, a proven ability to build trust with demanding professional buyers, and the quota performance to back it up.

I am relocating to Raleigh on a fixed timeline and am available to start immediately. I would welcome the opportunity to talk through the senior role and what you need from the territory right now.

Sincerely,
Collin Celic
