Relocating to Charlotte / Raleigh, NC — Available Immediately

Hiring Manager
Sysco
Charlotte, NC

Dear Hiring Manager,

Managing a territory that combines new account development with deep existing account penetration is a selling model I know well. At Sysco, the Sales Consultant role in Charlotte requires exactly that: prospecting new restaurants, hotels, and institutions while growing wallet share inside an established book of business — and doing it with the consistency and relationship discipline that makes a distributor rep the first call when something goes wrong. That is the rep I am.

At KraftMaid Cabinetry, I managed a $5.47M portfolio across 23 B2B accounts — splitting my time between deepening existing relationships through structured business reviews and identifying new opportunities for incremental revenue within and beyond the current account set. I grew market share in a declining market by being more present, more consultative, and more accountable than competing reps. I hit 145% of monthly quota in January 2026 through a combination of account penetration discipline and targeted new business development. At TTI, I drove 5.15% YOY growth on a $4.06M territory through daily in-person field activity and consistent account engagement.

Foodservice distribution adds a logistics and supply chain dimension I will need to develop. I am approaching that practically: I understand that a Sysco rep's credibility is built on product knowledge, reliability, and the ability to solve supply problems before the chef calls to complain. I will invest in learning the Sysco product catalog, the Charlotte foodservice market, and the operational realities of restaurant purchasing with the same intensity I brought to learning complex product lines in prior roles.

I am relocating to Charlotte immediately with no start date constraints. The opportunity to build a Sysco territory in a growing culinary market is compelling, and I am ready to earn the results. I would welcome the chance to discuss the Sales Consultant role and what success looks like in Charlotte.

Sincerely,

Collin Celic
